FIND BURIED BODY, MAY BE HARRIS BOY

Buried in a shallow grave on the Boston side of the Charles river, the body of a child, which may be that of the missing Chester Harris of Cambridge, was found this afternoon.

The Harris boy, five-year-old twin son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Harris, of 251 Chestnut street, Cambridge, disappeared last October 30.

Today's ground discovery was made in an Alton field shortly after the Charles river, from the east side of the Cambridge Electric Light Company near Western street.

The shallow grave, from which part of a skull and one arm were seen protruding, was built a hollow.

Protruding from the earth were several fragments of wood, which appeared to be buried, and a short distance away was found a stone of about the size of a five-year-old would wear.

Boston police, who were first notified of the body in the grave, immediately called the Cambridge Metropolitan officers, and a coroner of police was shown around the spot, pending arrival of the medical examiner.

Vanished Oct. 30 Little Chester Harris, twin brother of Cyril, who would carry for Parliament of a State House, spent his last days in a missing boy at Cambridge town, where he was last seen on October 30, in the Cambridge, near his home.

The child, who was almost throughout the district by police and volunteers, was found in a shallow grave, which was found to be a shallow grave.

SLOAN DENIES GM AT FAULT IN STRIKE

New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors, today denied that the company "is responsible for the breakdown of negotiations" with workers.

He reiterated the company's refusal to negotiate until the union and the "major workers" in General Motors plants began to return to the strike.

"These trespassers who have seized our plants and who have taken from you the privilege of working," he added.

"We will negotiate with this group and will earnestly strive for an honorable settlement as soon as the illegal seizure of our plants is terminated."

While he did not refer specifically to the strike, Sloan said yesterday by President Roosevelt he did say.

Efforts have been made to make you believe that General Motors is responsible for the breakdown of negotiations, that we refuse to meet with representatives of our own employees, that we are shirking our moral responsibility, that we have no respect for the public interest.

"You know that is not true, why all these charges?" Sloan said.

MERCY PLANE ARRIVES AT LOUISVILLE

Cleveland Airport, Jan. 27—Before dawn we are off into the black sky that reflects the black despair of the inhabitants of America's great central basin through which cruel yellow waters are pouring at flood crests never before attained.

When the sun rises once more on black hopes and black hearts, the Boston Evening American's flood relief plane, with 70,000 vaccines for stricken Louisville, will be roaring above the rampaging Ohio, on a 140-mile-an-hour dash into the rain.

Through snow and sleet, buffeted by a head wind all the way westward, the sturdy gray-and-white mercy ship carrying Fred Charley Cowan and myself, with the precious vaccine, had here last night.

Washington, Jan. 27 (INS)—America moved on a wartime footing today to meet the greatest flood catastrophe in history.

All hopes for temporary abatement were blasted. Waters which had receded slightly yesterday surged back to new highs. The death toll rose to 350, with the prospect hundred more will die.

The entire United States War Department was mobilized for the evacuation of a million persons, perhaps even several million, from Cairo, Ill., to New Orleans in the great Mississippi Valley.

Persons living in lowlands in a strip 50 miles wide on either side of the great river will be moved as the flood crest rides down-river.

Acting Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring announced the drastic step would be taken in fear that the levee system of the lower Mississippi would not be able to withstand the shock of the flood waters that have piled up in the Ohio and are now moving slowly southward.

Later, General Malin Craig, chief of staff of the army, explained the army will evacuate residents just ahead of the flood waters.

Thirty-five thousand trucks are being mobilized on both sides of the river and all railroads will be pressed into service to speed the withdrawal of the population, the greatest mass movement of a stricken people in history.

The Mississippi's billion dollar levee system was crumbling in spots, and government engineers declared it will not withstand the roaring mountains of water pouring into it from the Ohio river.

The Ohio valley itself was a vast inland sea, up to 50 miles wide and 1000 miles long. Waters receded somewhat at Cincinnati and Pittsburgh, but they surged back up in the lower Ohio.

LEVEES ALL OVERTAXED

Woodring disclosed that the levee system of the Mississippi was constructed to carry a flow of water of 2,400,000 cubic feet per minute, and that the burden now is in excess of 3,000,000 cubic feet per minute. This burden, he said, can be expected to increase measurably as the crest rides southward.

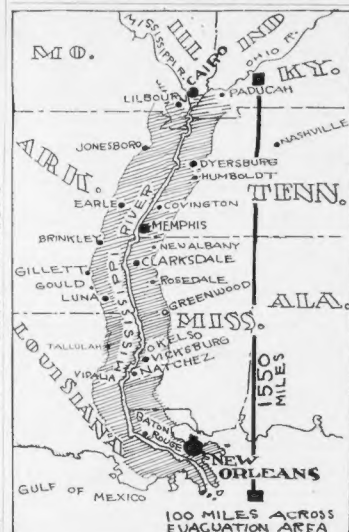

The army swung into action with plans upon direction of President Roosevelt. All of its resources will be utilized to accomplish the evacuation just ahead of the

The sullen, flood-battered waters of the Ohio river, sprawling over a 1000-mile graveyard of almost buried towns, villages and farmlands, rolled on to threatened new heights of disaster today in America's greatest emergency since the World War.

ENGINEERS BATTLE TO SAVE VALLEY FROM FLOODS

CITIES MUST BE PROTECTED CONSISTS OF RED CROSS CHIEF

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 27.—Army engineers freed of rescue and relief laborers turned hopefully today to the task of reinforcing the Mississippi's bulwarks to repulse a record-making flood assault.

With some more than a week's warning, the engineers are now in the immediate danger of a major dike failure, but the Red Cross again asks for no special attention to the river and its smaller tributaries.

Honeymoon in Flood Camp

Union City, Tenn., Jan. 27 (AP)—Flood waters failed to halt the wedding plans of a West Hickory, Ky., couple.

Within a few hours after the wedding, the couple, both 28 years old, were rescued from their homes in the lowlands of the Kentucky community, they were married here.

Magistrate T. R. Meadow performed the ceremony in the county clerk's office and the happy couple returned to a refuge camp.

As the flood waters mountantly poured in their low-lying homes, the couple decided to postpone their wedding until the waters had subsided.

But the waters were too fast for them. They were rescued from their homes in the lowlands of the Kentucky community, they were married here.

SUPPER ALIBI OF HOLDUP SUSPECT

Frank P. Robinson, of Tilton, N. H., a defense witness, testified in Suffolk Superior court today he had supper with Edward Wallace, 35, of the South End, at the time of the Railway Express truck holdup on Federal street on December 12, 1935.

Wallace, one of the defendants, and James Mahoney, 38, of Dorchester, are on trial as the two men who participated in Suffolk County first "machine gun" robbery. The pair are charged with possession of a machine gun, armed robbery of a messenger of the express company, and conspiracy to kill.

Robinson testified that he thought he first saw Wallace in 1928, but when a District Attorney Edward M. Sullivan asked him if the defendant was in state prison from 1925 to 1927, he was startled.

"I might have been mistaken. It may have been 1928," Robinson said.

"Yes, I met Wallace in a Boston cafe. There were five of us. We went to another restaurant and then went to someone's home to listen to a fight broadcast."

Robinson and the fight broadcaster, who was the only thing that fixed the date in his mind, said he had arranged to see him that day.

4 ACE WITNESSES BEFORE VICE JURY ALL UNDER HEAVY GUARD

Four witnesses, two of them girls regarded as Norfolk County's tramp cards in the grand jury probe of alleged vice and police graft in Brookline, testified under heavy guard at Dedham court house today.

Re fearful were authorities of witnesses being intimidated that precautions were taken that even surpassed those in the days of the famous Millican-Parker murder trial.

Squad of deputy sheriffs and police guarded entrances to the courtroom, every hall, corridor and door through which the witnesses passed from the street to the grand jury chamber.

Five Brookline police officers were guarded in an anteroom used this chamber so that no one could approach them. Photographers were barred from the building.

FIRST TO TESTIFY
First to testify was 19-year-old Margaret Tith, New Jersey high school girl, whose presence in an vice street house of ill fame first "brought" the investigation wide open.

She was rushed to the courtroom, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. McMane and Barbara Walsh, agents of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

Surrounded by her escorts, the girl passed through a gauntlet of guards up to an anteroom on the second floor, close to the grand jury chamber.

GIRL WITNESS FOLLOWS
The same procedure was followed in the case of Betty Spence, 20-year-old Brookline girl, who, according to Tith, is now serving five years in a federal penitentiary as a result of the Tith affair.

Spence, 20-year-old Tith, is a former of the grand jury testimony that "misleading testimony" had led to the conviction of Tith.

BIRTHDAY BALL RECORD SEEN

With a record attendance in prospect at the Roosevelt Birthday Ball in the Boston Garden Friday night, police made plans today for special measures to insure smooth handling of traffic and crowds.

These men will be in charge of Captain Thomas S. J. Kavanaugh of the North End station, who will be assisted by 10 sergeants.

Captain John T. O'Dea, head of the police traffic squad, also assigned special details for duty in the vicinity of the North Station and its approaches.

Reports of the Birthday Ball committee today indicated that an all-time high in number of guests present might be scored here at one of 5000 similar affairs throughout the country where "millions will dance that thousands may walk."

Ticket sales soared and Washington street headquarters was thronged as lively Ann Corio, Old Howard Theater burlesque favorite, appeared to act as temporary cashier.

The committee in charge again called attention to the fact that 75 per cent of the Birthday Ball proceeds will go to New England in situations, most of them in Greater Boston, all engaged in combating ravages of infantile paralysis.

The most dreaded scourge of American childhood.

Coal Stealers Win Suspension

Fall River, Jan. 27.—Two fathers, who admitted their sons stole coal that their families might have some warmth, were placed under suspended sentences of two months each in second district court today.

The men were John Bernard of Friendship street, who is charged with the theft of five children, and Joseph Willett, WPA worker, father of 10 children.

The coal was stolen from the freight yards of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad.

Also, George R. Han, 30-year-old, was charged with the theft of a ton and a half of coal in Bernard's case.

Washington, Jan. 27.—(UPI)—Chairman George E. Allen announced today that more than 18,000 tickets had been sold to the President's birthday ball to be held here at seven leading hotels on Saturday.

The celebration in the capital is only one of the 6000 to be held simultaneously throughout the nation on the night President Roosevelt celebrates his 60th birthday.

On that night, "millions will dance that thousands may walk" in an annual campaign to raise funds for the aid of children crippled with infantile paralysis.

Each of the 6000 communities participating in the celebration will donate part of their proceeds to the Warm Springs, Ga.

O'Hara Falls Ames Nursing Weak Roll

By JACK CONWAY

MIAMI, FLA., Jan. 27.

Billy Ames, who passes away his time acting as director of publicity at Narragansett Park, owner of a horse named Jaffee and as treasurer of the Celestion A. C., was rather upset when I met him under the grandstand at Hialeah Park.

Ames gripped in his right hand $6.00 and said:

"Leg has the class and will win," said Billy as he wiped the perspiration from his brow. "But Miss O'Hara always likes to have a small wager on her horses."

MR. BOSTON

"The place has got me on the ropes," insisted Ames. "When I lost came he I was winning as much as $150 a day with show parlay. Then I started to play the farm horses on the nose and you know what has happened in the farm horses—Trotters, Whoppers, Waddlers-Chancers and the rest. They have me wrapped around the sixteenth post. I don't think this Florida racing compares with what we offer in New England."
